Education is of relevance to everyone but it involves a specialized vocabulary and terminology which may be opaque or unfamiliar to those new to the field. This UK-focused Dictionary of Education provides clear and concise definitions for over 1,100 terms, from A* to zero tolerance, that anyone studying education or working in the field is likely to encounter. Coverage includes all sectors of education: pre-school, primary, secondary, further and higher education, special needs, adult and continuing education, and work-based learning. It also includes major legislation, key figures and organizations, and national curriculum and assessment terminology. This second edition covers all the contemporary reforms being introduced to revise the school examinations system and to reform the process of initial teacher training in England and Wales. Coverage of the vocabulary of education has also been increased, and longer and more detailed entries are included for terms relating to disability and inclusive practice, such as autistic spectrum disorder, attention deficit, and dyslexia, and to professional development, such as mentor. Entries regarding projects and initiatives that are now obsolete have been deleted. The dictionary features entry-level web links, accessible and kept up to date via the Dictionary of Education companion website. Detailed appendices include a timeline summary of landmark educational legislation since 1945 and a glossary of acronyms. In addition, there is a useful, fully cross-referenced section of comparative terms used in the US, Canada, Australia, and South Africa. This concise yet authoritative dictionary is essential for all students of education, teachers, and lecturers on development programmes, and it is strongly recommended for governors, classroom assistants, and parents.

Compulsory School Attendance and Minimum Educational Requirements in the United States Infobase Publishing

In the majority of countries/regions, teachers' minimum annual statutory salary for primary and lower secondary education levels is lower than the per capita Gross Domestic Product (GDP). For upper secondary education, this is also the case in more than half of the countries studied. With regard to maximum gross statutory salaries, they are higher than per capita GDP at all educational levels in most countries. - In many European countries, in 2014/15 teachers' salaries increased in comparison to 2013/14, with salary reforms and adjustments to the cost of living cited as the main reasons. This comes on the back of salary decreases in many countries in the previous years due to the economic crisis. - The minimum annual basic statutory salary for school heads in primary and lower secondary education is higher than the per capita GDP in most of the countries. The same is true for upper secondary education, where school heads are better remunerated than those at lower education levels, and only a few countries register a minimum salary lower than GDP per capita. - The difference between the minimum and maximum salaries is usually positively correlated to the number of years' service needed to reach the maximum salary. In some countries such as Hungary (secondary level), Austria and Romania, the difference between the minimum and maximum salaries is larger and many years of service are needed to reach the maximum salary. In other countries such as Denmark, Estonia, Latvia and the United Kingdom (Scotland), the difference between minimum and maximum salaries is smaller and the length of service needed to reach the maximum salary is short. - In almost all countries, the top level (central/regional) authority responsible for education sets the teachers' basic statutory salaries in public schools. However, in nearly all Nordic countries, local authorities alone or together with top level authorities have this responsibility. -

Almost a third of the countries/regions examined in this report offer salary allowances and complementary payments for the following reasons: further formal qualifications, further Continuing Professional Development (CPD) qualifications, positive performance appraisal or good student results, additional responsibilities, geographical location, teaching pupils with special educational needs or in challenging circumstances, participation in extra-curricular activities and overtime. The two reasons most often cited across Europe are 'additional responsibilities' and 'overtime', while 'further CPD qualifications' and 'positive performance appraisal or good students results' are the least common. - Salaries in private grant-aided schools generally follow the rules applied in the public sector. In private independent schools, salaries are defined on an individual and contractual basis but always follow national labour legislation/codes of practice.
